Michael O. Ball
Smith School of Business and Institute for Systems Research University of Maryland

Nearly all of us have a personal horror story involving some extreme air transportation delay and nearly all of us have an opinion as to what's wrong with the "system". As OR or OM professionals, most of us also have an opinion on how to make some progress toward reducing delays! This dinner speech, which will take place in view of the historic College Park Airport (the Wright Brothers were there), will reveal the secret to eliminating air transportation delays. If you want in on the secret, you have to attend the dinner.
