

Join Smith Net Impact & the Center for Social Value Creation for...

Career Trek Day 2009

Friday, March 27th

8:30 am – 5:00 pm

Are you interested in full-time jobs or internship opportunities that have impact in the social and environmental arenas? Join us for a day of networking and career discovery as part of the largest MBA career trek in Smith school history. Students have a choice of 1 of 2 treks to some of the most high profile and well known firms and organizations in the DC area. Speakers include CEOs, VPs, lawmakers, alumni, and recent MBA grads. Sign up on our list or register at <http://guest.cvent.com/EVENTS/Info/Invitation.aspx?e=1201a560-010b-42d8-98af-9bba2a66a25f>. $10 Registration fee includes all-day transportation and lunch. 30 person limit for each trek. First come first served – registration ends 5:00 pm Monday, March 23th.

TREK #1

Office of Congressman Eric Cantor

Learn about finance, taxes, trade and MBA careers in Congress! Rep. Eric Cantor is a 5th-term Congressman and the Republican Whip.

Council on Foreign Relations

A foreign policy think tank and member organization specializing in conflict resolution.

Population Services International

Harnessing market and pricing strategies, PSI addresses healthcare service for vulnerable populations in over 60 developing countries.

Calvert Fund

A socially responsible investment firm with over $15 billion in assets. Learn about opportunities in social research and equities.

TREK #2

World Resources Institute

A conservation think tank, WRI co-developed the international protocol for green house gas measurement. WRI is currently hiring!

US Green Building Council

Leading sustainable building design and construction, USGBC was the originator of the LEED green building certification program.

National Housing Trust

NHT promotes affordable housing, the essential first step in solving our nation's housing dilemma.

Chemomics International

An international development consulting firm promoting change in the developing world. Hear from a Smith alum and other practice leaders.